Purpose of the paper

A final version of the Integrated Care Strategy is shared with the committee for information following previous public engagement activity which has been reviewed by the committee in January and April.

Executive summary

In September 2022, partners across Lancashire and South Cumbria commenced work to develop an integrated care strategy which builds upon evidence, insight and engagement which had been captured through partnership working across health and care organisations for a number of years.

The development of the strategy and oversight of the engagement programme was coordinated through an Integrated Care Strategy development group which included representatives from organisations across the partnership.

From an early stage, partners recognised the importance of ongoing involvement and engagement and listening to communities throughout.

The development of the strategy took into consideration findings from:

- Joint Strategic Needs Assessments (JSNAs) from local authorities.
- Large amounts of data from the Lancashire and Cumbria Health Equity Commission.
- Insight gathered from engagement with local communities by partner organisations over the last five years.

Using this data and insight the partnership proposed six draft priorities for the integrated care strategy.

In October 2022, partners worked together to ask people living in Lancashire and South Cumbria to share their views on the six proposed priorities for our integrated care strategy. Following feedback, a draft integrated care strategy for Lancashire and South Cumbria was produced. A summary of this engagement was reviewed by the Public Involvement and Engagement Advisory Committee in January 2023 prior to the draft being presented to the ICB Board.

Partners launched a further engagement programme in March 2023, inviting feedback for a period of three weeks on the draft integrated care strategy to find out whether the final strategy document and the priorities it identifies can be easily understood, that they make sense and are meaningful to partners and residents of Lancashire and South Cumbria. A summary of this engagement activity was reviewed by the PIEAC in April 2023.

The final version of the Integrated Care Strategy, which incorporates the views of the public and resident engagement, is intended to be presented to the ICB Board in July 2023.
